PREPARATION

Prepping for a wildfire

Have an evacuation plan

- ✓ Designate an emergency meeting location for family and/or friends outside the fire or hazard area.
- ✓ Identify different escape routes.
- ✓ Train the family on how to use fire extinguishers and how to safely shut off your gas, electricity, and water.
- ✓ Practice the entire drill with your family.
- ✓ Set up an evacuation plan for your pets.
- ✓ Designate an out-of-area friend or family member as a main point of contact should local communications get knocked out.
- ✓ Ensure that your vehicles always have sufficient gas during wildfire season.
- ✓ Conduct an annual insurance check-in and ask for an outline of what your insurance policy covers, and adjust to ensure you have adequate coverage in the event of a wildfire (even renters).

Some evacuation centers don't allow pets. Check sites like Petfinder Shelter for local animal shelters that align with your evac plan.

HAVE WHAT YOU NEED

Unexpired fire extinguishers

Smoke detectors in every room

List of emergency contacts

A wildfire tracker app, like Watch Duty, to keep updated on the fire's whereabouts

Assemble an Emergency Supply Kit

PREVENTION

Preventing wildfire from spreading to your home

HAVE DEFENSIBLE SPACE

Create a buffer between your home and any grass, trees, shrubs, or wild-land area. This space will help to slow or stop the spread of wildfire to your home, while also reducing heat exposure to support a safe evacuation.

REMOVE POTENTIAL HAZARDS

Consistently clear debris from your roof, gutters, and grounds.

PREPARE YOUR HOME

Install vulcan vents

Prevent dangerous embers from entering the ventilation areas of your home.

Install gutter guards

Eliminate debris build-up from leaves, needles, pests.

Upgrade windows and doors

Dual-pane windows, which include a pane of tempered glass, provide additional fire resistance.

Double-check your roof

Materials such as composition, metal, clay or tile, are optimal roofing materials for fire prevention.

HAVE THE RIGHT LANDSCAPING

- Prune trees so the branches don't touch or hang over your house
- Allow space between the house and shrubs when planting
- Choose fire-resistant plants keep them healthy, and avoid flammable mulches
- Dispose of debris
- Keep your lawn low and well irrigated
